Substance Abuse Programs

Indiana Community Corrections Programs

- 77 Counties Currently Participating

CC Contract Language

R. The Advisory Board agrees that the program shall implement and utilize evidence-based practice models. Such evidence-based practices must:

- Be based on the Principle for Effective Intervention assessment of actuarial risk/needs,
- Enhance intrinsic motivation, and
- Target intervention by gathering of relevant information on risk, needs, responsivity on offenders and identifying problems, reviewing relevant research, developing interventions based on offender characteristics and what relevant research says about intervening with such an offender, making appropriate referrals and placements and evaluating the placement.

Indiana Risk Assessment System (IRAS)

- All Community Corrections agencies will be required to use the new risk assessment by January 1, 2011.
- If indicated on the assessment, offenders will be referred for further substance abuse evaluation and treatment to local community providers.
- Some Counties have Forensic Diversion or Substance Abuse programs in-house.

Quality Assurance

- CC Counties that contract with outside providers for substance abuse treatment have been asked to review curriculum and programs offered to ensure they are evidence based.
- CC agencies are required in their contract to provide evidence based practices.
- IDOC Partnered with Indiana University to start the Center for Evidence Based Practices which offered technical assistance, learning institutes, and a website to identify best practices.

Correctional Program Assessment Inventory (CPAI)

- Several Counties have had programs and services assessed through the CPAI process.
- There are a group of individuals in Indiana trained to conducted the CPAI without a fee. (Just pay per diem)

New Data Collection Requirements

- Program and service completion data will now be required from all Community Corrections agencies through quarterly reporting
- Substance Abuse treatment type of completion will be tracked
